What You need to know before you start reading

Hi lovely! Well have I got some exciting information for you here! First I’d like to applaud you for seeking out more information for yourself, and wanting to learn more.

What I’ve done for you here is I’ve picked a set of 20 or more gentlemen to answer a set of questions regarding femininity and women. The What Men Think™ package will come in 4 Volumes. Each Volume will detail 5 Real Gentlemen and their thoughts on a set of questions that I have asked them, that I know you’ll want the answers to!

Please remember: these men were not randomly selected. These are men whom I feel are the kind of men you and I would respect. All of these men are genuinely kind and caring, and are all very successful in their chosen fields of passion. Some of them are married, some of them are single. Some of them have children, some do not. These men have been chosen according to a particular set of criteria. Most importantly, they have the following qualities:

-chivalrous

-community-minded

-compassionate

- masculine

- happy

- driven

- strength (physical and mental)

- integrity

- loyal
Lots of these men I have met in person and spent time with. The ones I haven’t met in person are men I have networked with.

I am (as you know) passionate about relationships and achieving ultimate femininity. I believe a loving, passionate and long-lasting relationship where the woman is cherished and loved for life is truly a special gift which every woman has the potential to experience (and wants to experience!) but most do not.

This is why I have created this series, and as a token of my gratitude for trusting me and enjoying the resources I have to offer on my website, I am giving it to you for free.

Some of these men have included their website/information, so you can find out more about them if you wish.

Enjoy, and remember to stay feminine, fun and free! 😊

Renee.

Please tell us a little bit about yourself!

I find myself to be a pretty simple person with a very deep thinking process. I live my life with an incredible amount of passion, passion for my family, friends, health, business and much, much more.

I am a husband to my beautiful bride of 8 years, we have 3 amazing boys who are 8 yrs, 5 yrs, and 5 months old. I have many hobbies and passions in life and have been involved deeply in the personal development side of life since I was very young, it drives me to be the best “me” I can possibly be.

When you hear the word femininity, what comes to mind?

A sense of calmness. I know femininity can be both female and male, but for me this word brings comfort and makes me feel the beauty of the female spirit. I have always been around women and children my whole life. My mother home schooled both my sister and I and she also ran an in home day care service at this time as well.

What is the most attractive thing about a woman?

Well, I don’t believe there is a “most”, meaning only one thing. For me it’s the way they connect and understand most things, their thought process. Their ability to do what needs to be done in most any situation and the confidence they show in doing so.

As far as attraction on a physical nature, I’m a butt – smile – and eyes man myself!

In your opinion, how important is outer/physical beauty in a woman?

If this is asking do I feel that physical attraction is important when creating a physical relationship I would honestly say yes, it’s very important, but I find a way that a woman carries herself, her confidence is so much of this, not an arrogance but a confidence, there is a big difference to me.

In a friendship only relationship I don’t feel this matters obviously. I have many female friends that I find both physically attractive and those that I do not find physically attractive, but as far as the person that I want to spend the rest of my life with, I feel that physical attractions is one of the pieces that keeps the fire burning for one another, not the only piece by any means but definitely a piece of the puzzle indeed.

What traits in a woman’s character would you associate with true femininity?

Compassion, confidence, and a knowing of themselves on the deepest level.
What particular things/attributes about a woman cause you to step up and want to love her, protect her and take care of her for life?

The knowing that we are a team, learning, loving, living, and growing together. The leaning upon one another when times are both going well and during challenging times as well.

The balance that a woman keeps as a wife, mother, caregiver, career, and all the other “titles” that they have to be.

What is one rare thing to find in a woman’s character that you wish to see more of?

An unconditional love for themselves. I find many woman that are in relationships that are so unhealthy, they feel trapped. I find many women go into relationships with the wrong person thinking they are going to change them, or believe they will change once they get married.

If they had this unconditional love for themselves in the first place these relationships would never escalate to a level of feeling trapped. It saddens me to see anyone both women and men who live a life of unhappiness, if we are fortunate enough to get a chance at living a life on this wonderful planet than we have to live with an unbelievable amount of passion in whatever we do. I believe this all starts with having an unconditional love for ourselves.

What causes you to admire a woman?

How they treat themselves which in turn ultimately shows how they treat others. Their daily habits, what are they doing to always stay on a path of learning and growing on a daily basis.

Lastly, are there any women who come to mind when you think of femininity?

My wife and my mother!

When you hear the word femininity, what comes to mind?

The word “femininity” elicits images of a woman who is beautiful and delicate. Femininity to me means sexy and pure at the same time.

What is the most attractive thing about a woman?

I don’t believe any man can honestly deny that any of the women in Victoria Secret’s catalogue or any of the bikini models in Sports Illustrated are attractive. Therefore, the physical appearance of a woman is extremely important in determining attractiveness. Additionally, an attractive woman is one who has confidence in who she is and is true to herself. Someone who radiates happiness from within.

In your opinion, how important is outer/physical beauty in a woman?

This may not be politically correct but to me, outer beauty is extremely important. Why? Biologically, we are designed to procreate. Sex is a major driving force for men. We are first attracted to a woman that we potentially want to have sex with. Then later, a lasting relationship is formed when we identify inner qualities in her that complement our own values.

What traits in a woman’s character would you associate with true femininity?

The traits I associate with femininity are health, physical attractiveness, vulnerability, playfulness and ability to be supportive and nurturing.

What particular things/attributes about a woman cause you to step up and want to love her, protect her and take care of her for life?

A woman’s feminine energy is the fuel that feeds a man’s masculine energy. I believe that a man’s full potential cannot be reached without the desire of a woman driving him.

It is important for a woman to be aware of the power she wields over her man. Yet, she wields this power by being submissive and supportive of her man as the leader of the family.

A man feels powerful when he can make a woman happy. Even for the slightest thing. Therefore, a woman who praises her man often, even for the smallest of things like opening the door or carrying the groceries, can make a man want her more.

A woman needs to satisfy her man sexually. A woman who wants to have sex with her man often and lets her man know that she is being sexually satisfied makes a man feel successful.

What is one rare thing to find in a woman’s character that you wish to see more of?

We live in a confusing society where women become more masculine and men are becoming more feminine. It is therefore not surprising that more relationships break down than ever before and a great many marriages end in divorce.
I wish to see women being less driven by masculine obsessions and more open to being playful, joyful and even more vulnerable and dependent. A woman who is more dependent on a man makes the man want to become stronger and to protect her more.

What causes you to admire a woman?

I admire a woman who has the wisdom to use her femininity to guide a man towards greatness.

Lastly, are there any women who come to mind when you think of femininity?

Examples of women who are physically attractive, have confidence in themselves, shown signs of vulnerability, and are genuinely playful, funny and happy are:

Jennifer Aniston
Drew Barrymore
Kate Hudson

natural female beauty

What is the most attractive thing about a woman?

Eyes and smile.

In your opinion, how important is outer/physical beauty in a woman?

For a relationship it’s important. If there isn’t a physical attraction then the relationship is just a friendship. For friendships it doesn’t matter.

What traits in a woman’s character would you associate with true femininity?

sensuality, sexy, fun, exciting, playful.

What particular things/attributes about a woman cause you to step up and want to love her, protect her and take care of her for life?

someone who challenges me to be better than I am and I can challenge. But not all the time. She is strong enough to make her own decision and fragile enough to need help. A great friend, a great lover, a great parent.

What is one rare thing to find in a woman’s character that you wish to see more of?

taking action

What causes you to admire a woman?

Having conviction in herself and her beliefs and her family.

Lastly, are there any women who come to mind when you think of femininity?

Cameron Diaz, Marilyn Monroe,
Please tell us a little bit about yourself!

My name is David Kent, I’m 32 years old and live in Lanchester, England. I’m a Performance Analyst in an Acute Hospital and live on my own. I was in a relationship (I have two beautiful young daughters) with a perfect woman but a series of unsolvable differences ended this and I have been single for two and a half years. I am in no hurry to rush into another relationship as I’m waiting for the right person and time will bring us together.

I’ve given my account of what I believe femininity is and how I feel about a feminie woman and hopefully something I’ve written helps someone somewhere.

When you hear the word femininity, what comes to mind?

Femininity to me is a woman who is fresh and kind, a woman who takes care of herself and treats her mind and body with the respect it truly deserves to live a happy and healthy life. A woman who is not afraid to take on the traditional female role while also actively enjoying the freedom and fulfilment a career/interest gives. Femininity is about giving yourself and not expecting anything in return but the simple act of giving breeds further giving from those you give yourself to.

What is the most attractive thing about a woman?

It is very important to take care of your physical body; if you love yourself then it is so much easier for someone else to love you (a little bit of what is bad for you occasionally doesn’t harm). Like attracts like and if a man (who takes care of himself and understands how good it feels) sees a woman who is comfortable in her skin and can see she takes care of herself the law of attraction takes over and the two have a far better chance of hitting it off and enjoying a great physical and emotional experience. Add a sincere smile and no man can resist.

In your opinion, how important is outer/physical beauty in a woman?

I briefly touched on taking care of yourself physically in the question above but it is also important to add good grooming and the wearing of clothes that enhance your better physical attributes. A lot of woman make the mistake and think less is more but there is nothing more attractive than a simple summer dress instead of short shorts and a crop top. It is also important not to believe in the need to be naturally attractive/beautiful to feel good; any woman can look good and be attractive if they focus on looking their best. There is nothing more off putting for a man than a woman who wears too much make up.

What traits in a woman’s character would you associate with true femininity?

If a woman can give herself unconditionally in a relationship and be forgiving of males minor short comings (we all have them) then this character trait will ensure a man gives her everything she yearns for emotionally. If there is something that is annoying you then confronting the man will ensure he shuts off. Get us when we are vulnerable (you chose the time ©) and make suggestions.
What particular things/attributes about a woman cause you to step up and want to love her, protect her and take care of her for life?

If any woman can successfully model the type of woman I’ve described in the previous statements then I can guarantee that any man she develops a relationship with will love her, protect her and want and need to be with her for life. From personal experience and the experience of friends and family this seems to be the ‘holy grail’ that men desire and as time moves on more and more women are moving away from this model.

What is one rare thing to find in a woman’s character that you wish to see more of?

Staying focused, calm and in control when life decides to test you.

What causes you to admire a woman?

A woman who is not afraid to stand apart from the crowd. A woman who is happy to be her own person without relying on her friends and family for opinions on how she should be or act. Too many women today are carbon copies of each other and are living a life they truly do not want to live or feel comfortable with so they can feel a part of a clique.

Lastly, are there any women who come to mind when you think of femininity?

No well known celebrities unfortunately but that’s down to my lack of knowledge in that area. If pushed for a name then Angelina Jolie is an example of an attractive woman who takes care of herself and has a caring attitude. Looking after her own and adopted children who would otherwise have had a less than comfortable life, maintaining a good relationship with her husband, taking part in humanitarian work and staying away from the tacky celebrity life.

Country: Australia

Please tell us a little bit about yourself!

I work on the stock market and as a carer for people with a disability. I enjoy spending time with friends, going to the cinema, going out to dinner, as well as reading books particularly on spirituality and personal growth.

When you hear the word femininity, what comes to mind?

I think of women. Women who are genuine, kind, happy, at peace, loving, caring. Women who are fun to be around. Women who are true to who they really are. They are assertive when they need and very loving as well. These women have a radiance that is very attractive to men. Feminine is a powerful force that men love.

What is the most attractive thing about a woman?

Her eyes and her smile. They are definitely the most attractive things about a woman.

In your opinion, how important is outer/physical beauty in a woman?

It is important. However, her outer/physical beauty is really affected by how she feels inside.

What traits in a woman’s character would you associate with true femininity?

Love, caring, strength, compassion, understanding, passion, wholeness, happiness.

What particular things/attributes about a woman cause you to step up and want to love her, protect her and take care of her for life?

Same as the previous question: love, caring, strength etc.
What is one rare thing to find in a woman’s character that you wish to see more of?

Self-love

What causes you to admire a woman?

The way she moves, handles herself, smiles, laughs, talks, cares for things and people. The way she is so feminine which is such a gift to the world.

Lastly, are there any women who come to mind when you think of femininity?

Danijela Mijic, Skye Tiana, Leah Alexander – they are friends of mine and all are great examples of feminine women that I admire.

That is all for Volume 1. Look out for Volume 2, which will be available soon! 😊
